

Agricultural Dept. Ordered to Shut Up

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Far Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee withdrew today a directive that the Agriculture Department halt the practice of providing newsmen with information about initial complaints in its policing of livestock, meat and poultry markets against cheaters and price manipulators.

Department officials discussed the matter with Chairman James L. Whitten, D-Mass., of the House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee, in the congressman's office this morning.

Later, Roy W. Lennartson, associate administrator of the department's marketing service, reported that Whitten had withdrawn the order.

"He said it was not his intention, nor that of the committee, to close the door on such information," Lennartson said. "He told us to go ahead and issue press releases, and also provide other information requested in connection with the formal complaints issued under the act."

Under the committee order, information on policing of livestock, meat and poultry markets was to be released only when there were formal hearings or assessment of penalties.

The secrecy directive was not extended to cover the department's policing of markets for grain, cotton, perishable commodities and other farm products.

These facts came out today in a newsman's search for information on formal charges the department has made, in the name of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, that a Colorado livestock commission firm and a Colorado livestock dealer had violated the Packers and Stockyards Act.

This act directs the department to continue on page two.

Program Will Ignite Battle in Congress

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy asks Congress today for a new arsenal of legislative weapons against racial discrimination — proposals certain to ignite long weeks of heated, bruising combat on Capitol Hill.

The President is expected to wrap up eight measures in his civil rights bundle, several of which have already evoked cries of hostility from segregationists and conservatives in Congress.

The one drawing the shapeliest fire would prohibit discrimination in most stores, restaurants, theaters and hotels.

Another expected major provision would set up a program of about $1 billion to train Negroes and other workers for higher paying jobs.

The congressional road ahead will be lined with snags, laid there by the Rules Committee in the House and by Southern Democrats and their filibuster in the Senate.

Kennedy's lieutenants likely will not move past the snags in either house without the help of Republicans.

Kennedy is continuing his round of conferences at the White House, hoping to weld national support behind his civil rights legislation.

He met Tuesday with eight governors and asked them to back up his federal action with state action of their own. He received a generally favorable response.

He planned to meet this afternoon with school officials. In the last few weeks, he has met with mayors, businessmen, labor leaders, and religious leaders, asking them for support and for voluntary steps toward desegregation.

But, perhaps more important than this outside support, Kennedy needs support in Congress. He has conferred several times with Democratic and Republican leaders there.

After Monday's session with GOP leaders, it became clear that the President won support from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for most of the proposals but lost him on the key proposal for a public accommodations law.

Fire Destroys Camden Mill

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Fire destroyed the main mill of the Reynolds-White sawmill complex four miles south of Camden Monday.

No estimate of damage was given. Cause of the fire was not known.

A company official said the plant, one of the most modern in Arkansas, would be rebuilt.

Firemen kept the flames from spreading to a nearby planing mill and a chip mill.

Firefighting operations were hampered because the nearest fire hydrant was one-half mile away.

U.S. Sends Up Weather Satellite

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Tiro 7 weather observation satellite rocketed into orbit today and on its first global pass transmitted a series of cloud cover pictures.

The robot weatherman, main assignment of which is to study hurricanes and typhoons born in the 1963 season, shot into orbit aboard a three-stage Delta rocket which blazed into the predawn darkness from Cape Canaveral at 4:50 a.m.

The satellite, in tandem with the earlier Tiro 6, could provide the most extensive photographic investigation yet of a full hurricane season.

Two hours after launching, after the space package completed one circuit of the earth the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced it was in successful orbit about 400 miles above the earth. Minutes later a tracking station at Wallops Island, Va., reported receiving a set of cloud pictures which were described as being good quality.

Male, Female Space Duet Has Returned

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's male and female space duet returned to earth today, Tass announced.

The Soviet news agency said Lt. Col. Valery Bykovsky and Valentina Tereshkova had landed in a "pre-set area."

Bykovsky went into space at 3 p.m. (7 a.m. EST) last Friday. Miss Tereshkova was launched at 11:30 p.m. (4:30 a.m., EST.) Sunday.

Bykovsky's fifth day in space, by far the longest flight to date.

For his dimpled-chinned space partner, Valentina Tereshkova, it was the third day in space. It brought with it a proud feminine record—more than twice as many orbits as the leading American astronaut, Maj. L. Gordon Cooper.

Tass news agency said she had completed more than 46 orbits by 8 a.m. Moscow time — midnight EST. Cooper set the U.S. mark of 21 last month.

Tass said Bykovsky by then had made more than 77 orbits, 13 more than Soviet Maj. Andrian Nikolayev's record set last August.

Two French observatories earlier had reported failure to pick up Valentina's Vostok 6 on a scheduled appearance overhead shortly before midnight Moscow time.

French officials said they believed the Soviets had brought her down. Moscow quickly denied the French report.

The official Soviet bulletins reported both space capsules and pilots were doing fine.

Although the Soviet communiques made no mention of a return to earth, Bykovsky's Vostok 5 was losing altitude at the rate of about half a mile with each orbit. At the end of his 66th trip his maximum altitude was 119.9 miles, 26.1 miles below the high at the start of his flight Friday.

His minimum altitude was 13.8 miles below the original low of 112.4.

Bykovsky's orbital time also declined slightly as his altitude dropped. But neither he nor the scientists preparing the bulletins showed any uneasiness.

Protest Vigil Kept Up at Gadsden, Ala.

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — Some 300 to 350 Negroes maintaining a protest vigil on the courthouse lawn were dispersed early today when a force of about 100 state troopers moved in to clamp a tight security lid on this racially troubled city.

The riot-trained troopers, under the command of Col. Albert Lingo, state public safety director, quickly brought an end to the vigil started after the arrest of 396 demonstrators Tuesday. The Negroes had said they would continue until those arrested were released.

The arrival of the state troopers, who used night sticks and electric prods to run off the Negroes—and the crowd of about 200 white spectators, ended for the time being the threat of a full-scale conflict. Lingo set up a tight patrol of the city. Alabama's fourth largest, with his helmeted troopers.

Elowah County Sheriff Dewey Colvard estimated there were about 200 peace officers in Gadsden, including sheriff's deputies and policemen from surrounding counties.

Of the Negroes being held, Colvard said, "They'll stay in jail until the judge decides what to do with them."

The Negroes will go before Circuit Judge A.B. Cunningham who issued the anti-demonstration injunction which they are charged with violating.

to assure free, open and fair competition and fair business practices in the marketing of livestock, meat and poultry. The law gives the secretary authority to put violators out of business.

Those named in the formal Colorado complaints were accused of failing to pay farmers for livestock.

Until recently, the department made public information on complaints, which ran into the dozens each year, issued under the act. This was halted with the recent issuance of a report by the House Appropriations Committee on the Agriculture Department's $6-billion appropriation measure for the coming fiscal year.

Buried in the lengthy report, written by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., is the following directive:

"Officials of this program (the Packers and Stockyards Act) should immediately discontinue the practice of publicizing any claim or charge against any individual or stockyards company for violation of regulations where no formal hearings have been held or penalties invoked."

Whitten is chairman of the Agricultural Appropriations subcommittee. The Appropriations Committee report gave no explanation for its directive.

Police Expense Now Flat Sum

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Police Commission has decided to pay troopers flat monthly expense allowance instead of reimbursing them for expenses, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Monday.

Faubus said the amount of the allowance would be decided at a commission meeting Friday. Money troopers receive in reimbursement is not subject to income tax, but, Faubus said, the flat amount will be.

ters and soda fountains. In that area of private enterprise Kennedy already had lost the backing of the Republican congressional leadership.

The proposed ban on discrimination by shops, stores, restaurants and lunch counters would apply to those establishments which provide services to interstate travelers to a substantial degree, those offering goods which a substantial portion have moved interstate commerce, and establishments which otherwise substantially affect interstate travel or the interstate movement of goods in commerce.

The legislation offered by the administration says that discrimination in access to accommodations provided for the public comes within the scope not only of the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution but also the 14th Amendment which prohibits racial or religious discrimination.

Kennedy said the state and local approach and voluntary efforts, have been tried in ending discrimination of the type dealt with in this key section of his program.

"But these approaches," he said, "are insufficient to prevent the free flow of commerce from being arbitrarily and inefficiently restrained and distorted by discrimination."

Kennedy said "an explosive national problem cannot wait city-by-city solutions" and federal action is needed to "open doors in every part of the country which never should have been closed."

The special message discussed at length the employment problems of Negroes, which Kennedy said are twice as burdensome as those facing the working force as a whole.

In this connection, he proposed additional funds—not specified—to broaden the federal manpower development and training program, more money to finance his proposed youth employment opportunities program, and further appropriations for vocational education.

A price tag of something like a billion dollars was put on that

Racial Fights Damage the Economy

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Winds of racial strife, sweeping the United States with social revolution, have battered or badly damaged the economy of some cities.

Boycotts by Negroes, aimed at racial barriers, have forced white businessmen into biracial talks for desegregation when nothing else had an effect on social patterns and customs.

Unrest, tension and violence which usually accompany racial conflict within a community slow down the economic pace even in the absence of direct boycott campaigns.

For four years, Little Rock, Ark., suffered industrial stagnation in the wake of violence and unrest over school desegregation—enforced by federal troops for the first time in the United States.

No new plants moved to Little Rock from the onset of the 1957 racial crisis until 1961, said Everett Tucker, president of the school board and also head of the local industrial district.

Little Rock now is booming industrially, Tucker said. He attributed the city's economic plunge to the racial troubles and particularly the closing of high schools for a time in 1958.

"The Negro, because of his low economic status, has only marginal power but it can be effective," said a Southern Negro leader, the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker of Atlanta.

What he calls marginal power often spells the difference between profit and loss for some businessmen. This factor figured prominently in a desegregation agreement in Birmingham, Ala.

Caught in a racial struggle that erupted into the streets in early April, Birmingham's economy was chopped by a two-edged sword—an effective boycott by Negroes and marching, picketing and other demonstrations which helped keep other shoppers from down-program Tuesday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. Kennedy gave no breakdown on funds required for various programs in the jobs area but said that, over-all, an additional $400 million would be needed for the 1964 fiscal year that begins July 1.

To combat discrimination in employment, Kennedy proposed that the committee on equal employment opportunity, headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, be given permanent authority. And he said he was renewing earlier support of pending federal fair employment practices legislation, applicable to both employers and unions.

Negro Drowns at Hamburg

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP)—James Head, 17, a Negro of Monroe, La., drowned Sunday while swimming in Wilson Lake near Hamburg.

Ashley County Coroner W. M. Jones said Head apparently struck his head on a rock.

Head had been visiting his grandmother, who lives near the lake.

town stores.

Alabama's top businessmen permitted their names to be linked with a biracial pact that ended the demonstrations. White spokesmen readily admitted they went to the conference table to try to save the city's economy.

Department store sales in Birmingham fell from plus 15 per cent in March to minus 19 per cent in May—the peak of Negro demonstrations—in comparison to 1962 figures.

Since the biracial agreement of May 10, the store sales have moved up to six points—minus 13. The agreement, not yet put into effect, calls for desegregation of store facilities and upgrading of Negro workers.

Confidence Vote for Zimmerman

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Executive Committee of the Arkansas Municipal League gave a vote of confidence Monday to Glenn Zimmerman, the league's executive secretary.

The committee said it had investigated Zimmerman's role in a North Little Rock land deal and found "no evidence of wrongdoing."

Zimmerman was criticized by several North Little Rock aldermen for giving a Memphis firm an option to buy for $50,000 four lots that Zimmerman had bought from the city for $30,000.

The aldermen said they understood that Zimmerman bought the property as a site for a league headquarters.

The Memphis firm dropped the option after the City Council voted to rescind sale of the property. Zimmerman said he would go ahead and build a league building on it.

The league is scheduled to discuss the construction project at its next meeting.

Jackson County, (Newport), was named for President Andrew Jackson.

Personal Income Up in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income of Arkansians in the five-year period, 1957-62, increased 33 per cent, 12 per cent more than the average for the 50 states.

This was disclosed in data made public by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., during Senate debate on bills relating to labor unions.

Goldwater contends that workers prospered more where state laws prevent compulsory union membership.

"Fifteen of the 19 right-to-work states are shown to have exceeded the national average rate of improvement," said Goldwater in citing recent figures compiled by the Commerce Department.

"The average percentage rate of improvement in right-to-work states was 32 per cent, compared with the national average of 20 per cent," he said.

Average wages over the five-year period were up 19 per cent in Texas, 18 per cent in Oklahoma and 8 per cent in Louisiana.

Court Ruling Accepted in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court's sweeping decision outlawing required Bible readings and the recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools appeared today to have been accepted with little commotion in or out of Congress.

The ruling, affecting thousands of classrooms all across the land, was obviously expected, however, in view of the court's action last year against use of a non-denominational prayer composed by the state's public schools.

That decision brought down a storm of criticism on the tribunal, especially from Congress.

But congressional reaction to Monday's 8 to 1 ruling was comparatively mild. Generally, the feeling seemed to be that interpreting the laws and the Constitution was the court's job.

"The Supreme Court has its function and we have ours," commented Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, a Catholic.

Many state officials, meanwhile hurriedly read the decision to see if it required changes in their public schools. Thirty-nine states now allow morning devotional exercises in public schools. Many clergymen stressed a greater importance of religious instruction in churches and homes.

The court, acting on cases from Pennsylvania and Maryland, specifically barred Bible-reading and the recital of the Lord's Prayer as part of required classroom exercises in public schools.

But there appeared to be no room under the decision for a teacher to hold such exercises on her own since public school teachers are government employees.

"In the relationship between man and religion, the state is firmly committed to neutrality," wrote Justice Tom C. Clark in the majority opinion.

He said the decision in no way shows hostility toward religion. "Nothing we have said here" indicates that the study of the Bible or of religion "when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education" is prohibited.

The two cases resulted from requirements in Baltimore, Md., and Abingdon, Pa., that public schools be opened daily with devotionals. The suits were brought by parents, who, as Unitarians or atheists, said the exercises were offensive to their beliefs.

The court also, in a dissenting opinion, said a Supreme Court decision which had upheld the practice of opening devotionals in Miami schools.

In another case involving the question of government and re-

STEPFATHER DROVE 13-YEAR-OLD OUT

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My 13-year-old daughters run away! Her stepfather made life so miserable for the poor kid that she couldn't take it any longer. I'm near crazy with worry. Where she is, nobody knows.

My husband says, "Quit stowing, she'll come home." But six weeks have passed and she's still missing. I've called all our relatives and friends, been to the police and still no trace of the child.

My husband spends all he earns on farm equipment and drink. Last week he bought himself a new truck, tractor and what have you.

All my money went into this farm. I first saw it in the spring when the fruit trees—peach, apple, cherry and pear—were in bloom. A little brook gurgled through the pasture land and pretty, old-fashioned flowers bloomed in the front yard. My former husband left me fairly well off so I had enough to buy the farm but all I've got out of this investment is heart-aches.

Two weeks ago my husband reeled in drunk. I told him to leave and never come back. He gave me his word of honor that he would quit drinking but last week he hit the bottle again.

Should I go to the law about getting rid of this man who is wrecking my home and life? —Disgusted and Despairing.

Dear Disgusted and Despairing: Your troubles need to be sorted out and tackled individually. In order of importance, they are: your daughter and your husband.

First, let's consider the daughter. She obviously must be located and the police are the ones to do it either through the Bureau of Missing Persons, or the F.B.I.

The reason for her disappearance leads us to problem number two—your husband's drinking. He desperately needs help. From my experience, the most likely source of such help is Alcoholics Anonymous which has local branches throughout the country. Your doctor or minister can put you in touch with the nearest group.

If your husband persists in drinking, you will then probably have to take the drastic step of separation. But don't make threats without being fully prepared to follow through. Consult your lawyer about your legal rights.

Dear Helen: Suddenly my father has taken a dislike to my boy friend and won't allow him around our house. Dad says the boy will never amount to anything but I am sure he will. How can I convince my father that this boy is truly nice and very decent? —Puzzled

Dear Puzzled: Only time will tell whether you or your father is right. Since your father has taken a dislike to your boy friend suddenly, something must have recently occurred to cause him to change his opinion. Your boy friend's behavior in general and his respect of your father's wishes in particular, may hasten the day when the two become reconciled. Don't force the issue.

Dear Helen: I am 16 and shy as the proverbial violet. Being too timid to talk to people, I lack friends. How can I overcome this wretched shyness so that I may begin to live a new and happier life like other girls? —Mouse them over with 10 governors, including four Republicans, at a luncheon conference.

Dear Mouse: Excessive shyness is sometimes the result of excessive self-preoccupation. Forget yourself and make a game out of finding out as much as you can about the other person. If necessary, feign enthusiasm at first. In time you will become genuinely interested and, as a result, be more interesting yourself. Also, develop real enthusiasms of your own.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he believes he and Dirksen can get together to sponsor a bill which would include most of the administration's program.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said this program would include a provision to outlaw segregation in public places and in firms dealing in accommodations and services which do a yearly gross business of $175,000.

Other provisions would strengthen enforcement of voting rights, permit the attorney general to institute school desegregation suits, set up a community relations service and make the civil rights commission a permanent body.

Short of impeachment, there is little Congress could do about the court's ruling anyway, and there were no serious suggestions along that line.

Congress could submit to the states a resolution to change the First Amendment of the Constitution, which deals with the separation of church and state, but there was no strong sentiment for that approach either.

Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., said, however, he would push for such an amendment. He said the existence of Almighty God, a Supreme Being, in our public schools.

The noticeable lack of congressional reaction to the historic prayer decision was attributed by one leader to the legislators' preoccupation with turmoil over civil rights.

Negro Church Is Bombed at Gillett

GILLETT, Ark. (AP)—State Police said today a bomb was set off at a Negro church one mile south of Gillett Tuesday night.

Lt. Buck Halsell said a small amount of high explosive was set off in the front door of the small white frame African Methodist Episcopal Church.

The door frame was blown off and debris was blown inside the church. Several windows were shattered. No injuries were reported. No one was at the church for services or activities at the time.

Sheriff Harold Woodson of Arkansas County said he was notified of the explosion at 9 a.m. today. He went from Stuttgart to Gillett, 38 miles south, and roped off the church.

State Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation officers arrived a short time later.

They were trying to determine what kind of explosive was used. Halsell said the church, which was built last year, was not seriously damaged. Both Halsell and Woodson said they did not know why the church was bombed. They said there has been no racial trouble in the Gillett area.

The church seats 100 persons.

BOSTON (AP)—Boston, once the headquarters for the movement for abolition of Negro slavery, today became the scene of another in the series of anti-segregation demonstrations occurring in both the North and South.

The issue was what spokesmen for the city's Negro community called de facto segregation in public schools.

Negro parents were asked to keep their junior and senior high school children out of the public schools and send them instead to neighborhood social centers for instruction in "citizenship and the freedom movement."

Negro leaders said they expected no violence during the boycott which they called a "freedom march."

Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara assigned a deputy police superintendent to command special police details at schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods.

Both Louise Day Hicks, School Committee chairman, and Dr. Frederick J. Gillis, superintendent of schools, had expressed fears of violence.

"The grave responsibility for the boycott now rests very heavily on the shoulders of the NAACP and the Citizens for Human Rights," Mrs. Hicks said.

Gillis said his office had received many reports of threats of violence to children in connection with the boycott.

10,000 Reserve or 5,000 Medical may be purchased independently.

I stayed around the hospital for a while—the place was on a fine edge of tension and excitement. I answered questions about what had happened; they answered mine. Six injured people had been brought in; both operating rooms were in use.

I paced the hall before the front desk.

Word came down to us — one burn case was critical, and in shock. Three donors had gone upstairs. The injured child was in good condition. Surgery was proceeding. Things seemed to be under control.

I told the Supervisor, in a thin voice, that I thought I'd go home. "Do you have your car, Miss Osborne?"

My car was parked in the courthouse lot, and its keys were in my purse. I hoped and trusted that someone had taken Aunt Bean and Lovey home.

"I'll walk," I told the supervisor.

"But—it's black dark!"

Burdette Helps Cardinals Hold a Slim Lead

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Lew Burdette, a reluctant Cincinnati slugger, may find the glass slipper forced on his foot a perfect fit.

Acquired from Milwaukee just before Saturday night's trading deadline, Burdette went right to work for St. Louis and maintained the Cardinals' slim lead on the National League lead by checking the New York Mets 6-2 on six hits Tuesday night.

Burdette, a 36-year-old left-hander, was dispatched to the Cards along with his hefty salary for catcher Gene Oliver and pitcher Bob Sadowski. The two-time 20-game winner said frankly he would have preferred to stay in Milwaukee.

Burdette, though reluctant to give up his long-time association with the Braves, may prove the added pitching help St. Louis needs in its quest for its first NL pennant since 1946.

Burdette responded immediately with a strong performance, blanking the Mets until Tim Lincecum hit a two-run homer with two out in the ninth. He struck out seven and walked only one while boosting his record to 7-5 with his fourth straight victory.

The triumph kept the Cardinals one-half game ahead of San Francisco. The Giants took over second place and dropped Los Angeles to third. 1 1/2 games back, by thumping the Dodgers 9-3.

In other games, fourth-place Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 2-1, the Chicago Cubs downed Houston

3-1 and Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 7-5 in 10 innings. The American League leading New York Yankees blasted Washington 10-5, Minnesota tripped the second-place Chicago White Sox 5-3, Cleveland belted Baltimore 7-3, Boston blanked Detroit 9-0 and the Los Angeles Angels edged Kansas City 2-1 in 11 innings.

Harvey Kuenn, replacing slumping Felipe Alou, got the Giants going against the Dodgers, lashing a leadoff single in a six-run third inning and winding up the uprisings with a two-run single.

That provided more than enough margin for Jack Sanford, who scattered 10 hits for his ninth victory in 14 decisions, and got some additional working room from a homer by batterymate Tom Haller. Bob Miller, 4-4, was the loser.

The Reds won in the ninth after Vada Pinson's bounce skipped over the head of Phil's first baseman Roy Sievers for a triple. Two intentional walks followed before Johnny Edwards singled in the deciding run. That ruined a smart pitching performance by Ray Cui 8-5, who allowed only six hits. Al Worthington, 2-1, got the victory.

Dick Ellsworth won his ninth for the Cubs with Lindy McDaniel's relief help. Ellsworth, who has lost five, had a shutout until the ninth when the Colts scored on Carl Warwick's single, a wild pitch, his own error and Howie Goss' grounder.

Ernie Banks drove in two Chicago runs with a single and sacrifice fly, and now has 999 RBI for his career.

Joe Torre got the job done for the Braves with a two-run homer in the 10th following Dick Schofield's third error—the Pirates sixth of the game. Torre tripled to knock in a run and scored the tying tally in the eighth. Bill Mazeroski homered for Pittsburgh.

Bob Shaw, 3-4, was the winner with Al McBreen, 7-2, taking the loss.

Harmon Killebrew's 11th homer and run-producing singles by Vic Power, pitcher Jim Perry and Zoilo Versalles paced Minnesota to a 4-0 lead and the Twins held on against the White Sox. Perry gave up eight hits and five walks in seven innings but only two runs. J. C. Martin got the other Chicago run with a homer against Twin reliever Bill Dailey in the eighth. Joe Horlen was the loser.

Latmore doled out just one Oriole hit through six innings, and struck out 11 over-all. The Tribe backed him with an early offense, scoring in each of the first five innings off loser Dave McNally and reliever Wes Stock for a 7-0 advantage.

Willie Kirkland socked his sixth homer in the last 10 games for the Indians, who have zoomed up to fourth place by winning 16 of their last 18. The Orioles, meanwhile, have dropped 15 of 19.

Dressen, who replaced the fired Bob Scheffing as Detroit manager only hours before game time, watched his Tigers lose their eighth in a row. The Red Sox were stymied by rookie Bill Paul until the seventh inning when they broke a scoreless tie with three runs, then made it a rout with six in the eighth.

Ed Bressoud and Dick Stuart gave home run support to Wilson, now 6-5.

John Wyatt uncorked the wild pitch on his first delivery at Los Angeles, allowing Bob Perry to romp in with the 11th-inning run that enabled the Angels to edge the Athletics. Ken McBride, 7-6 and winner of four straight, went all the way for Los Angeles, giving up just three hits.

Clay Beats the British Fighter

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Marcellus Clay, the punching prophet, beat Britain's Henry Cooper in the predicted fifth round Tuesday night and silenced a horrified crowd in the fight that Liz Taylor stopped.

As the fifth round opened, a terrible cut over Cooper's left eye pumped blood over the Wembley Stadium ring.

Cass the Gas flashed remorseless left into the unseeing eye. Liz, left with Richard Burton, jumped out of her seat and started screaming "No, no, no."

The crowd, two minutes earlier confident that Clay was finished, took up the cry with a chant of "Stop it, stop it." They threw newspapers into the ring to show that Cooper was done.

Referee Tommy Little stepped in. The crowd sat in silence as he declared Clay the winner on a technical knockout after one minute 15 seconds of the fifth round—exactly 20 seconds earlier than Cassius had forecast.

Thus Clay had pulled off another prophecy. But he was dunned on the seat of his trunks before he did it.

The Louisville Lip, who entered the ring for the scheduled 10-round fight wearing a crown, looked anything but kingly in the first round when Cooper swarmed over him like a man fighting off bees.

But he straightened out in the second round and the outdoor crowd of 50,000 saw a fast, quick-punching heavyweight. The clown in him was gone when he got in trouble.

Cooper caught Clay flush on the chin with a solid left hook and Cass went down heavily for a count of three before the bell at the end of the fourth round. Cass admitted later in his dressing room that the punch numbed him but contended he would have been "out without the hell."

Jack Nixon, one of world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's managers, was in Clay's dressing room. When Cassius said he was ready to fight Liston "if the price is right," Nixon stepped up.

"We want you," he told Clay. "And the price will be right." The cocky Cassius declared that "the ugly bear will fall in eight." Nixon suggested Philadelphia as the site.

Casualty List Fails to Slow Those Yankees

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Lo, the poor Yankees. They can't seem to survive a game without someone getting banged up. They have a casualty list as long as the New York telephone book.

The only thing the battered Bombers can do is win. They won their fifth in a row Tuesday night, with relief pitcher Marshall Bridges injured in the process, rapping Washington 10-5 with a 13-hit attack that included a pair of lusty home runs by Roger Maris.

The Yankee victory boosted their American League lead to a full game over the Chicago White Sox, who were clipped by the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

Cleveland's rampaging Indians took their sixth straight, beating the sagging Baltimore Orioles 7-3 behind Barry Latham's five-hit pitching; Boston's Earl Wilson blanked Detroit 9-0 on a four-hitter, spoiling Chuck Dressen's debut as Tiger manager; and the Los Angeles Angels got the tie-breaking run on a bases-loaded wild pitch in the 11th inning for a 2-1 decision over Kansas City.

In the National League—Lew Burdette made his first appearance in a St. Louis uniform a wining show, pitching the first-place Cardinals over the New York Mets 6-2; San Francisco whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-3; the Chicago Cubs knocked off Houston 3-1; Cincinnati shaded Philadelphia 7-5 on Joe Torre's 10th-inning homer.

Whitey Ford started for the Yankees and lasted through the sixth, long enough to gain his ninth victory in 12 decisions and run his lifetime mark against Washington to 33-5. Larry Osborne tagged the stylish southpaw for a two-run homer before Whitey was replaced by Bridges.

The left-handed reliever joined the limping list in the seventh when he was sent sprawling by Osborne in a play at first base. Bridges went to the sidelines with a slightly hurt left knee and Hal Reniff finished up.

Editor's Note — Vice Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, the Navy's second-in-command, has returned from an important mission to London. He explained to British officials the U.S. Navy's thinking on the proposed NATO nuclear force of merchant-type vessels armed with missiles. He gives his views in this exclusive interview.

Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations and the Navy's top expert on the proposed multinational NATO nuclear force, made this confident statement in an exclusive interview.

It was his first such interview since returning June 8 from London. There, he explained to British naval and government officials the U.S. Navy's thinking on the proposed force of merchant-type vessels to be manned by mixed crews from some of the 15 NATO nations.

The British have been pictured as skeptical about the concept. In fact, except for the West Germans, no NATO nation has demonstrated any readiness to contribute cash and men to such a nuclear force.

Challenging the doubters, Ricketts contended a ship-borne Polaris force would have "a high degree of survivability"—meaning ability to elude any Soviet attack.

The Navy's second-in-command argued it would be impossible for the Soviets to pinpoint all or even a considerable number of the Polaris ships in the millions of square miles of ocean in which such vessels would roam.

Says Russia Can't Prevent Retaliation

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Claude V. Ricketts said to the Russians "would be incapable of preventing retaliation" from a fleet of Polaris missile-firing ships operating under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations and the Navy's top expert on the proposed multinational NATO nuclear force, made this confident statement in an exclusive interview.

It was his first such interview since returning June 8 from London. There, he explained to British naval and government officials the U.S. Navy's thinking on the proposed force of merchant-type vessels to be manned by mixed crews from some of the 15 NATO nations.

River Officials Not Now Alarmed

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Rains over the weekend pushed the Ouachita River gauge at Camden to four feet, ending the Ouachita River Valley Association's alarm over low river stages.

The river gauge read 3.6 feet last week, lowest since 1943 which is the driest year on record.

H. K. Thatcher of El Dorado, a member of the association, said the low river stages resulted from a scarcity of rain since last October, but that the river now appeared to be rising.

This was the basis of Ricketts' assertion that the Russians would be unable to prevent this force of about 25 ships from launching their 200 or so missiles at Soviet targets if war came.

"We of the U.S. Navy have made a very thorough analysis of all of the military facets of this question," the three-star admiral old an AP reporter.

"We have come to the very definite conclusion that this would be a very effective force. We are convinced that our conclusions are right."

Meanwhile, it was learned from other knowledgeable sources that current U.S. thinking follows these lines:

—The cost of building and operating a force of some 25 Polaris surface vessels mounting about eight missiles apiece would be substantially less—perhaps $1 billion less—than the $5 billion mentioned in the past.

—The proposed NATO fleet would be built over a period of six or seven years.

—The Polaris launching ships would be constructed in the yards of the participating countries, which would provide a means of offsetting some of the cost of joining the force.

—Command of the vessels and the composition of their crews would probably be allocated in proportion to national contributions.

—The force probably would be under the NATO supreme commander in Europe, currently U.S. Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.
